The program is designed to be as light as possible, but it has a lot of nice features. For example, you can add custom key bindings to quickly copy and paste between applications. You can also save the current contents of the clipboard to a file (yay, save/load!), and since it runs in the system tray, it's always there whenever you need it. It also has a separate "automatically run" function, which allows you to customize how often the app is executed. This is really convenient for when I'm connected to the Internet via 3G or a mobile connection, and don't always have the option to connect via USB.
