Selective Wettability of ZnO Nanoparticles on TiO₂ and Al₂O₃ in Organic/Aqueous Ionic Liquid. A facile and effective method of nanoparticles deposition of ZnO on TiO₂ and Al₂O₃ is achieved by the deposition of ZnO on TiO₂ and Al₂O₃ in 1-hexyl-3-methylimidazolium hexafluorophosphate ([hmim]PF₆) aqueous solution. The deposition of ZnO can be effectively controlled by the loading amount of ZnO. SEM images show that TiO₂ and Al₂O₃ are selectively covered by ZnO due to the coordination reaction between Zn²⁺ cations and 2-aminoethanol group, while other organic and inorganic ions are not adsorbed on the surface. The combination of selective deposition and coordination reaction makes the system of ZnO/TiO₂ and ZnO/Al₂O₃ useful for fabricating functional materials. Sometimes, being a sarcastic jerk is the only way to go. No seriously, life is hard sometimes and when you're in the thick of it, a sarcastic, snarky attitude is a pretty effective mode of fighting off depression and anxiety. Ever find yourself going, "Oh for crap's sake, why did I do that? Why did I say that?" It's a great way to bounce back from a crappy day. Rather than lay there in misery, going, "Oh no, I said that. I can't believe I said that. I can't believe I said that" is a great way to set yourself back on course. It works for me every time. The post goes on to describe the "diabolical and diabolical" power of an occasional "you know what? Screw you." and the even more diabolical power of a "you-know-what-I'd-like-you-to-know-what-I'd-like-you-to-know." and then adds, "The net result is that you wind up feeling good about yourself." Haha--you get it. The Sarcasm Works. I can't believe it took me this long to figure that one out! And I've been sarcastic all my life. Sometimes it comes out as sarcastic as a fart in a windmill. Sometimes it's just flat out snarky and mean.
