This was a project that got started because I was sick of remaking graphics and textures for each level in the game. I opted for making the entire game in an engine in which I can just download and use any graphics and textures that are appropriate to the game and at the same time a fun way to learning Python. I have also changed a lot of the logic of the game to make it more fun and I make sure to add new sprites in most levels so that you will be able to have a huge variety of levels without me having to remake the graphics again. Multiple Bestiary entries.
A whole "lost" code for horror progression?
A curse that is unleashed at higher tiers when you get lower?
I was the first to attempt this and do all the rules for it, since nobody else seemed to want to?

A 2. 23:42 • INSOMNIA - Hopeless, GAILB® Frostbite™ • By guest author Stephen Colyer Reclaim your life, Hopeless! You have spent many months walking, crawling, shuffling your slow footsteps through the labyrinth you call your life and now you are exhausted and you are lost. Everything that you once knew, seems to be a maze to get into a maze, you even know the maze... Hopeless | Nightmares & Nightmares Hopeless, GAILB® Frostbite™ GONG!GONG!This is a song for all you lost, hopeless, motherless and homeless people that I know. You know who you are and there is light under you dark night in you city and there are light in you eyes. Oh it's so hard to believe in a force to pull you up by your bootstraps when you felt that you were breaking under and that you felt you aren't able to make it alone. But I will be by your side for you are my people. Hopeless you work for me but you have no control. This hopeless I'll bring the light you'll see you're so far gone, and I will show you the way. The day you found hope is the day that life never looked better. The sight of hope was enough to make you smile. But the way that you saw life, the way you saw death was and is, the way that you followed the cold cold wind of pain and tossed and waited and cried for the dark to say that it was time to die. You cried and cried for it all the while feeling that your time was passed. But that day you found hope you drank it at its finest and felt like you won. After you found the promise of hope you began to smile and then the darkness smiled at the sight. I ask you one question I say, what do you have left to lose? This is my life and I ain't goin' nowhere. "Like Wildfire" -Immortal -

You can download Red Horizon from the Red Horizon page on My Game City. If you don't have My Game City yet, you can download the app for free on iOS and Android. When you're done, make sure to leave a review so the developers know your thoughts on the game! Update 1: Added more sales from the game. Enjoy! Update 2: Work continues on the game. I think I have some more updates in the works, stay tuned. Official Maitriya Singha (Isaac) Watermark patch This is a watermark patch I created. It is meant to protect you from losing your hard work, such as artwork or music. It is based on the song or music of the game I'm working on. It might seem annoying at first but it is completely optional and will only change a few things that are visible on screen. -The disclaimer text will be changed to this: "It may change some things that are visible on the screen" -I will also change the color of the login screen. It is still going to be the same turquoise color, but it won't have the blue logo or the "MAITRIYA" text. Update: I added a feature to have the main menu music change when you're facing left or right. I also added the option to remove the big blue logo from the login screen. To check the changes, simply install this patch and change the file paths in SteamApps/common/EpicTruckingV3/SteamApps/common/EpicTruckingV3/EpicTruckingV3.ini

2 review Into the Forge Warhammer 40,000: Gladius - Assault Pack 2 has had its Kickstarter campaign cancelled as it failed to meet the target in under two days, but that doesn't stop us here at Into the Forge from reprising our strategy blitz ahead of the full release later this year, aiming to put the newly-introduced solo errand and trouncing missions through their paces. Will it live up to the fidelity of a full stop-gap before the full experience? Read on to find out what we think of Gladius' first solo mission and, before you do, here's a little bit to whet your appetite: They Come In All Shapes and Sizes Gladius is a game with a variety of missions, each with their own twist on their presentation and style of play. From righting an ancient golem army to bartering with a corrupt AI empire, it's got a variety of missions to suit your busy Warhammer 40,000 tabletop. And that variety adds a lot to the experience. The two main categories of missions, as it were, are Errands and Tournaments, and it's the latter category that's the most familiar, especially those of you that played the first of the Gladius missions late last year. But feel free to ignore that information, since we've covered them already: errands and tournaments. Perhaps the best way to explain Gladius is to say that errands are a little like a more traditional board game, and tournaments are a match between two human commanders vying for all out conquest. Both of them are a good way to get a beginner into a game of Warhammer 40,000, and encourage the player to learn the core skill of time management and dice rolls. However, both also have a bit more in their favour, the first being that they work so well alongside the core rules, given that they can use all of them to play, not just CCGs. Unlike CCG missions, errands and tournaments tend to be fairly short, which will increase with the difficulty, allowing you to get a good scope on what's going on and play a bit longer. It's when you start looking into the tactical nature of these missions, starting with errands, that you start to notice a few of the challenges of such a game in practice. The two biggest issues are that errands have
